

CLINT HILL

Chief Development Officer

Clint joined United Way of Greater Charlotte as Chief Development Officer in 2018. In this role, Clint builds and maintains relationships in the community while leading the Resource Development team focused on achieving aggressive fundraising and revenue targets that fund the inspiring community impact strategies of the organization.

As a member of the Executive Leadership Team, Clint uses his 20 years of fundraising and leadership experience to work with the CEO and Board of Directors to diversify revenue and create large-scale strategies for philanthropic efforts addressing our community's economic mobility challenges.

Prior to his work at United Way, Clint spent a little over 14 years at Furman University, with his last role being Director of Athletics Development. At Furman, Clint managed all aspects of athletic fundraising efforts including capital projects, athletic annual fund, endowed funds, team specific operational funding, and more than 25 annual special events. He also managed a portfolio of top university athletics donors to drive financial support for the mission of Furman Athletics.

Clint received a bachelor's degree in business administration from Furman University. Clint earned his CFRE certification in 2017 and is currently a member of the local Association of Fundraising Professionals.

Clint and his wife, Tia, have two young daughters, Lily and Jackie. When he is not working, you can find Clint on the golf course with friends or at a new restaurant around Charlotte for date night with his wife.
